

Release Date: 17 December 2012
For Immediate Release
Recovering Warrior Task Force
Contact: 703-325-6640

14 December 2012

Secretary of Defense Appoints New DoD Membership to the Recovering Warrior Task Force (RWTF)

Washington, D.C. – The RWTF is pleased to announce the appointment of its new DoD Co-Chair, Vice Admiral Matthew L. Nathan, Surgeon General of the Navy.

Vice Admiral Nathan joins the Task Force with 31 years of active military service where he has served in various leadership positions in the Navy's Medical Corps including the Commander of Walter Reed National Military Medical Center and Navy Medicine, National Capital Area. He is the 37th surgeon general of the Navy and Chief of the Navy's Bureau of Medicine and Surgery.

The RWTF is also pleased to announce the appointment of two new DoD members, Army Major General Richard P. Mustion and Air Force Technical Sergeant Alex J. Eudy.

Major General (MG) Mustion is the Commanding General of the Army Human Resources Command located at Fort Knox, KY. He has served in numerous leadership positions during his career and brings to the Task Force extensive experience in personnel policies and programs.

Technical Sergeant (TSgt) Eudy is the Air Force Special Operations Care Coalition liaison at Walter Reed National Military Medical Center in Bethesda, MD. In his current position, he provides wounded, ill, and injured special operations members of all Service components with oversight and advocacy for their recovery needs.

The RWTF will provide the Department of Defense (DoD) annual reports with advice and recommendations on the care, management, and transition of recovering Service members and their families.

For more information regarding the Recovering Warrior Task Force, please visit our website at <http://dtf.defense.gov/rwtf/>.

###